1. Background

Suicide is a highly personal and complex issue that is influenced by many interacting social and individual factors. Contributing factors include social isolation and loneliness, insecure housing and homelessness, harms related to alcohol and other drug (AOD) use, employment instability and unemployment, financial hardship, harms related to gambling, chronic health conditions, and previous trauma and/or adverse experiences relating to abuse or neglect. Life events such as end of a relationship, legal problems (including contact with the criminal justice system), domestic and family violence, or job loss can also contribute to suicide.¹

While there are a diverse range of sexes and gender identities, for the purpose of this document the terms 'male', 'men', and 'boys' will be used. 'Male' refers to a person's biological sex assigned at birth. 'Men' refers to adults who identify as men. 'Boys' refers to individuals under 18 who identify as such.

Suicide is a leading causes of premature death among men and boys in Australia and around the world. In Australia, males account for the majority of all deaths by suicide.

In Queensland in 2024²:

- 769 people in Queensland lost their lives to suspected suicide.
- Of the 769 suspected suicides, 602 were males accounting for 78.3% of those deaths.
- Suicide rate among males was 3.7 times higher than women.
- Males aged 40-44 had the highest number of suspected suicides followed closely by those aged 25-29, 35-39 and 50-54 years.
- Males aged 70-79 had a suspected suicide rate 8.7 times higher than females in the same age group.
- 61 First Nations people died by suspected suicide. First Nations people aged between 25-34 years had the largest proportion of First Nations suspected suicide rates.
- Among First Nations people, the ratio of suspected suicides is 3.7 males to 1 female.

From 2019 to 2024, age-standardised suspected suicide rates have consistently been higher for males than females. There are different theories regarding the higher suicide rates of males compared to females. These include disparities in early life experiences, differences in emotions and emotional expression, and social or cultural norms. Risk factors linked with male suicides include the end of an intimate relationship or other interpersonal conflict, harms related to AOD use, physical limitations due to disability or illness, work or unemployment stressors, and financial difficulties.

2. About the Queensland Mental Health Commission (Commission)

The Commission is a statutory body established under the Queensland Mental Health Commission Act 2013 to drive system reform of Queensland's mental health, AOD, and suicide prevention systems. The Commission encourages and facilitates change to improve the mental health and wellbeing of all Queenslanders, with a focus on:

One of the Commission's primary functions is to develop and facilitate the implementation of a whole-of-government strategic plan on behalf of the Queensland Government, to set the strategic direction and identify priority areas for reform and system improvement. The current strategic plan is Shifting minds: The Queensland Mental Health, Alcohol and Other Drugs, and Suicide Prevention Strategic Plan 2023-2028, which is complemented by three sub-plans:

- Achieving balance: The Queensland Alcohol and Other Drugs Plan 2022-2027 (Achieving balance)
- Every life: The Queensland Suicide Prevention Plan 2019-2029 (Every life)
- The Queensland Trauma Strategy 2024-2029 (Trauma Strategy)

The Commission has been allocated non-recurrent funding to support the implementation of Every life Phase Two.

3. Grant alignment with strategic plans

This grant forms part of the Commission's implementation of its strategic plans. The grant aims to fund initiatives to support the implementation of Every life Phase Two with a focus on men and boys as a priority population. This includes the following specific actions in Every life Phase Two:

- ✓ Action 4 - Promote integrated models of support that use a whole-of-family and kin approach, especially for youth, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, and First Nations people.
- ✓ Action 16 - Develop strategies to address contributors to male suicide including service appropriateness, service gaps, and system navigation.
- ✓ Action 18 - Support the development and implementation of community-led and place-based suicide prevention initiatives for groups who may be at higher risk of suicide.
- ✓ Action 23 - Co-design suicide prevention literacy, supports and services for specific groups and life stages, including care transitions such as exiting out-of-home care, entering or being released from justice settings, leaving military service, finishing or disengaging from education/vocational settings, and entry into aged care or supported living.
- ✓ Action 25 - Develop, implement and evaluate scalable early interventions for people experiencing the end of an intimate relationship, employment or workplace distress, financial distress, and isolation and loneliness.

4. About the Suicide Prevention for Men and Boys Grant Program

This grant program is open to eligible organisations in Queensland. Organisations providing specific services to men and boys are encouraged to apply.

The Commission is seeking to engage organisations with suitable experience, capability, and skills to deliver an initiative that meets the objectives identified under these grant guidelines. The total funding pool available under this grant can be found under Section 5.

Funding is time-limited to 30 June 2027. Successful recipients will demonstrate how the proposed initiatives contribute to the suicide prevention reform agenda and can be replicated and sustained beyond this grant.

4.1 Objectives

The applicant will propose an innovative suicide prevention initiative to be trialled and/or evaluated in Queensland. The initiative should be effective in reducing suicides among men and boys and generate evidence for its use. It is intended that initiatives be adaptable and shared for broader use.

Initiatives should contribute to one or more of the Priority Areas listed below. Applicants can submit more than one application to address multiple Priority Areas.

- Priority Area 1: Reducing risk factors for suicide among men and boys
Address contributors to male suicide by improving service appropriateness, filling service gaps, enhancing system navigation, and implementing scalable early interventions targeting supports for the end of a relationship, workplace distress, financial pressure, isolation, and other known risk factors within priority populations.
- Priority Area 2: Enhancing suicide prevention literacy and personal coping capacity
Deliver evidence-informed suicide prevention literacy, supports, and services that build men and boys' capacity to recognise and respond to suicidal distress, access gender-appropriate services and support them to live connected, purposeful, and meaningful lives. This also includes a focus on building and sustaining healthy masculinities.
- Priority Area 3: Supporting men and boys through life transitions
Develop tailored supports for specific groups and life stages, including transitions such as exiting out-of-home care, release from justice settings, leaving military service, disengaging from education or vocational pathways, and entering aged care or supported living.
- Priority Area 4: Strengthening gender-responsive and culturally safe service systems
Increase organisational competence by promoting integrated, gender-responsive, culturally safe, and whole-of-family/kin-based support models, with a strong focus on the needs of youth, culturally and linguistically diverse communities, and First Nations men and boys.
- Priority Area 5: Building community-led partnerships and reducing stigma
Support community-led and place-based suicide prevention initiatives, strengthening local partnerships to improve referral pathways, reduce stigma, and foster positive community attitudes toward help-seeking among men and boys.

The Commission has identified men and boys as a priority population for the delivery of this grant initiative. To be eligible applications should include one or more of the identified priority populations, including but not limited to:

- | | |
|--|---|
| ▪ Boys and young men (up to 25 years) | ▪ Men who are involved in domestic and family violence (DFV) |
| ▪ Older men (65+ years) | ▪ Boys exposed to DFV or adverse experiences |
| ▪ Men who are new parents | ▪ Men experiencing AOD and/or gambling harms |
| ▪ Men and boys living with a disability | ▪ LGBTIQ+ men and boys |
| ▪ First Nations men and boys | ▪ Men and boys experiencing/at risk of loneliness. |
| ▪ Queensland veteran men | ▪ Men experiencing the end of an intimate relationship, custody, and/or parenting challenge |
| ▪ Culturally and linguistically diverse men and boys | |
| ▪ Men and boys living in regional and remote communities | |
| ▪ Boys in contact with the Justice or Child Safety systems | |

4.2 Program outcomes

The outcomes of the Suicide Prevention for Men and Boys Grant Program will provide evidence to guide future Queensland Government initiatives to prevent male suicide.

The proposed initiative should:

- ✓ support suicide prevention system reform and align with the strategic intent of Every life
- ✓ support healthy masculinities through promotion of positive and more expansive forms of masculinity to prevent gender-based violence
- ✓ be community-, peer- and/or lived-living experience (LLE)-driven
- ✓ be informed by existing and/or emerging evidence
- ✓ contributes to innovation and generating evidence
- ✓ include a clear evaluation framework/plan³
- ✓ embed lived and living experience leadership in the design, delivery, and evaluation of the initiative
- ✓ include how communities will be engaged in codesign, as well as delivery and evaluation
- ✓ include a project timeline
- ✓ include a budget
- ✓ include a sustainability plan

At the conclusion of the initiative funding period, grant recipients are required to prepare a detailed end-of-project report and evaluation.

4.3 Partnerships and engagement

The Commission recognises that driving reform requires both strong partnerships and meaningful engagement from a range of stakeholders. Partnerships may include new or ongoing collaborations, while engagement refers to broader activities that involve and connect stakeholders.

These stakeholders can include the public, private, not-for-profit organisations, and communities that support the delivery of health and social services, businesses, industries, peak organisations, and/or Commonwealth, state, and local governments.

Applications should outline a commitment to working with key stakeholders, which may include, community organisations, priority cohorts, other key organisations, sporting and recreational clubs, government agencies, and existing partnerships.

4.4 Lived - Living experience (LLE) engagement

The Commission recognises the importance of LLE expertise in informing, guiding, and leading the reform of suicide prevention systems. The Commission considers it critical that people with LLE of suicide are actively involved in the proposed initiative's development, implementation, and evaluation. For the purposes of this grant, the Commission defines 'lived-living experience' as:

- having experienced suicidal thoughts, been through a suicidal crisis, or made an attempt on their life
- having supported a loved one through suicidal crisis
- having been bereaved by suicide

The Commission also acknowledges that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples may use different definitions of LLE due to the ongoing negative historical impacts and the need to consider Aboriginal and

³ Although an academic evaluation might not be applicable/suitable to all initiatives, considerations should be taken to collect data during the project implementation to build or provide supporting evidence for the initiative in supporting suicide prevention.

Torres Strait Islander people's ways of understanding social and emotional wellbeing.⁴

The Commission also acknowledges that LLE can vary greatly across cultures and groups and should take into account the diverse ways in which people understand and express mental health and wellbeing. LLE also recognises the effects of migration journeys, displacement, intergenerational trauma, discrimination, and other significant life events on the social and emotional wellbeing of people.

The Commission believes that providing financial remuneration is an important part of recognising the valuable contribution that people with LLE bring. As such, the Commission expects the successful recipients to provide paid participation payments in accordance with the Commission's paid participation fees*, unless the applicant can demonstrate that its own paid participation policy offers better conditions. Applications need to outline how people with LLE will be engaged in initiative design, implementation, and evaluation, and include a budget for all paid participation expenses.

*Paid participation time should be remunerated in accordance with fees below:

- Less than 2 hours: $125
- Half a day (max of 4 hours): $250
- Whole day (max of 7.25 hours): $500

The approach must align with the values outlined in the Commission's Commitment to partnering with people with lived-living experience in Queensland and use non-stigmatising, trauma-informed, language and approaches.

4.6 Sustainability

This grant funding opportunity is time limited to 30 June 2027. Applicants will be required to outline the measures introduced during the life of the project to ensure sustainability beyond 30 June 2027. The Commission is unable to offer funding to successful recipients beyond the life of the grant.

5. Grant funding available

- Priority Area 5: Building community-led partnerships and reducing stigma
Support community-led and place-based suicide prevention initiatives, strengthening local partnerships to improve referral pathways, reducing stigma and its impacts, and foster positive community attitudes toward help-seeking among men and boys.

The Contract sets out the terms and conditions that will apply to the grants, but some inclusions will be made based on information from successful applications. The Commission may choose to negotiate directly with a successful applicant in relation to some aspects of selected initiatives.

The Contract will outline payment instalments and the conditions for receiving each instalment. Accordingly, applicants should consider the requirements outlined in the Contract prior to completing the application.

Prior to offering a Grant Program: Suicide Prevention for Men and Boys, the Commission reserves the right to undertake further Due Dilligence checks of the applicant, including but not limited to the following:

11.2 Promotion

The Commission is likely to promote selected initiatives through its various communication processes, at certain events, and/or at key stages in the life of the Grant Program: Suicide Prevention for Men and Boys. The Commission expects successful applicants to work in collaboration with Commission staff to provide relevant information in a timely manner to support these processes.

The Commission supports successful applicants promoting their initiative locally through their communication processes and networks, for instance, on the applicant's website and newsletters. The Commission may also be supportive of successful applicants promoting their initiatives through a formal external process or third-party publication, for example, at a national conference or peer-review publication. However, approval must first be obtained from the Commission.

In both instances, acknowledgement of the Commission's contribution will be required. Further information about the Commission's branding and acknowledgement requirements will be provided to successful applicants.

11.3 Reporting

In line with the Contract, it is expected that a successful applicant who enters a Contract with the Commission will provide regular (generally six-monthly) written updates on the funded initiative, and in addition will provide a detailed written report on the initiative progress against deliverables and budget at its conclusion.

Grant recipients will also be required to provide regular financial acquittal reporting, and an annual audited financial statement.

If the Commission is not satisfied with the progress of an initiative, further payment of funds will not be made until satisfactory progress has been made on the initiative. If satisfactory progress is not achieved within a reasonable time, the Contract may be terminated, and all unspent funds will be recovered by the Commission via invoice. Where there is significant underspend against the approved budget, the Commission may withhold further payments until the underspend is addressed or reallocated in agreement with the Commission.
